Mzuzah Excerpt:

Kicked off by an award-winning (CNN, BBC) journalist and documentary producer, the Mzuzah Convergence leverages the power of innovative conversations to inspire a new generation of millennial leaders. With world class panelists and participants from several countries including high level thought leaders from trail blazing organizations such as USAID, JHPIEGO, The World bank Group, Mecowa, the Mzuzah Convergence is marked by vibrant conversations and stimulating workshops. These dialogues cut across multiple issues including education, health, infrastructure, innovation, gender equality and leadership with a strong emphasis on starting and sustaining value driven businesses in keeping with the belief that business is best when it is done with humanity in mind. In these dialogues, thought leaders from high level multinational organizations will fully engage a solution driven audience in critical assessments of successful pathways for future impact. As we continue to pursue excellence in business and the responsibility associated with ethically sound business, we look forward to a bright future in which we are part of the solutions that we create when we focus on our young leaders.
